While the rest of America was celebrating the Bicentennial, Berkeley High was worrying about its present and future.

Not only did school start five weeks late because of the strike, but the school's bleak financial status threatened both programs and morale. Another disaster was averted at the last minute when the School Board rescinded a vote to send 1,000 West Campus students to BHS on two months notice because other schools did not meet earthquake standards.

As the Board proposed cutbacks in almost all programs which help make BHS a unique experience, both teachers and students began to unite by working towards saving the quality of the school.

In spite of these sour notes, many students kept their spirits up. The Jazz Quartet returned from the Monterey Jazz Festival with rave reviews. The Chicano Workshop's Prison Survival Project brought 228 donations which were distributed to inmates for Christmas. It didn't rain on a delayed homecoming day. The Basketball team not only won the League title, but thoroughly beat El Cerrito in one of the most exciting games of the season. The track team was looking forward to taking the state championship, and the students made an overwhelming showing at the Board meetings to protest cutbacks.

Even though the spirit improved during the spring semester, a question mark still hung over the Spirit of '76.

ACTIVISTS

Traditional clubs were still a part of BHS, but many students found that classes focused on activities were a vital part of their lives. Along with a still rich elective program, students could get experience in leadership, the women's movement, sports collecting, eating, or painting. One of our strongest activities, the Chicano workshop, sponsored a two day session on prisons besides initiating a prison survival project, bringing with them the spirit of '76.

...But what could our active activists do without good, wholesome entertainment? Not much! This is the reason we need performers to build up the spirit of '76. At Berkeley High we have many talented performers. While the Jazz groups reached their height in performances, many students continued to develop their talents in make-up, costuming, music, acting, and stagecraft. The plays continued to be mature, thoughtful performances, and the newly created African Dance Ensemble added lively rhythm to the spirit of '76.

ATHLETES

Using facilities at BHS which could easily pass for Bicentennial landmarks, BHS students continued to excel as athletes. Not knowing whether their sport would fall to financial cuts next year, each team gave its all at athletic events. Many athletes protested cuts in interscholastic programs pointing out to the School Board without sports there would be no Spirit of '76.

Mural Arts, one of the most spirited and active groups at Berkeley High, got off to a good start in the spring of '75 and worked all the way through the fall.

A group of teachers, Joseph Romero, Jay Manley, and Barbara Scales got a $2,500 grant from the Berkeley Civic Arts Commission to have students paint the Community Theatre wall. 'Berkeley's Ethnicity and the Arts' was selected as the theme of the mural. One student thought of the idea to collect images out of the last five years of Berkeley High's yearbooks and make a photo montage with them.

The design was made and approved by the city council. Many students contributed ideas for a color design until the city council approved one.

Then it was all go for the painters. They painted every day from the freezing early morning into the afternoon. Some of the students who devoted their time to the mural include. Zina Albert and Sharon Mitchell, who designed the coloring of it, Josue Zazueta, Edward Willy, John Balderstein, Jennifer Cole, Donald Newton, and Ingrid Crickmore. They, together with many others, completed the mural on December 1, 1975.

Undaunted by the five week strike, the Jacket produced its first issue in the Berkeley Gazette, in addition to another issue before the strike ended. Three year veterans Sam Singer and Wesley Uno, along with Patti Fisher, adviser, helped to plan and organize an October conference at San Francisco State which focused on depth in reporting and First Amendment rights.

During the year the Jacket evolved into a highly sophisticated publication. Not only was the paper read enthusiastically by the student body, but by many members in the community who looked to the newspaper for the most in-depth coverage of the Berkeley school district as well as Berkeley High.

Sam Singer, fall editor, provided steady coverage of the school board. One article, "Board cuts staff, programs," brought about a complaint from one board member, who received 50 phone calls from upset parents.

Wesley Uno, fall assistant editor and spring editor, continued his thorough sports coverage. He also typeset copy and continued to create original layouts.

Volumes 129 and 130 are now history, the product of long hours of work. The efforts of the staff culminated in some of the finest issues ever to come out of the Jacket Office.

Black Studies classes at Berkeley High Celebrated Kwanza in December. Kwanza is a Black Nationalistic holiday in celebration of their Love Supreme for each other. The festival extends over seven days from Dec. 26 to Jan. 1. It is not a 'Black Christmas' and should never be construed as such. Each day one of the seven principals are observed : unity, self-determination, collective work, and faith. Kwanza was celebrated with dancing from the African Dance Ensemble, poetry, and courses of delicious entres. Hopefully these values will be perpetuated throughout the Black community for the entire year.

CLUBS

Going into their second year of publication, Brad Hess, editor, and the rest of the MSA Literary Journal staff decided to improve the quality of their writing, illustrations, layouts, editing, and printing. To achieve this goal, the publication was reduced to one journal which came out in the spring. Johnny Selvin, adviser, felt that a creative outlet would help to bring MSA students together and help to unify the sub-school as a whole.

As a result of the strike, the Rally Committee's money-making activities were hindered. In spite of this, they managed to gain momentum, recruit 30 members, and sell refreshments at home football and basketball games. In addition to other activities, they made booster signs for opposing teams as well as BHS.

This year, the Keys and Keyettes, service clubs sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Berkeley, merged to form one group. Their active year included taking blind children trick-or-treating, Christmas caroling at convalescent homes, and donating money to the Guatemalan Relief Fund. The Keyettes also sponsored a child in the Foster Parents Plan.

Social activities included basketball games with rival Key teams. The Keyettes made refreshments and all had fun, in keeping with the Key tradition.

SCIENCE

An ecology conscious Science Fiction club took camping trips to the desert and Sierras besides joining the U.C. Ecology class for field trips.

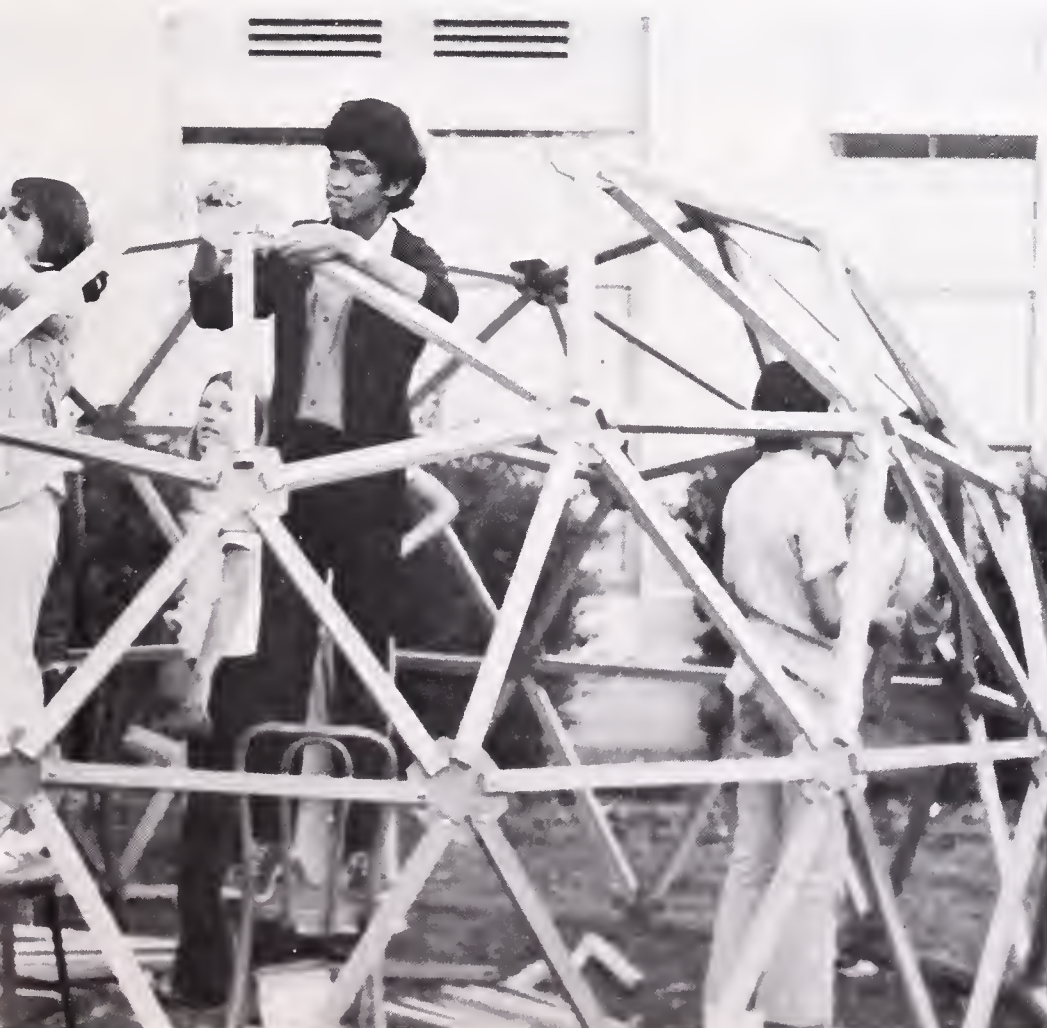

At the Western Science Fiction conference held at the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco, the club showed up dressed as Alex Panasenka, adviser, and his droogs from the Clockwork Orange.

MESA attracted some 50 minority students who are interested in pursuing careers in engineering or science. The program, sponsored jointly by Berkeley High and the University of California-Berkeley Engineering, was financed through grants from industries and foundations.

Students must carry at least one math, english, and science class. Murphy Taylor, counselor, worked with the University of California representative, Professor Wilbur Somerton, to provide special tutors to help the students maintain a 3.0 grade point average and receive a well earned $200 per semester.

Last year the Science Botany Club worked hard to get money for their project. They gathered enough money to buy a glodesic dome greenhouse and chain-link fencing which now encloses the club's experimental garden. This year the club members put up the greenhouse themselves and started the experimental garden.

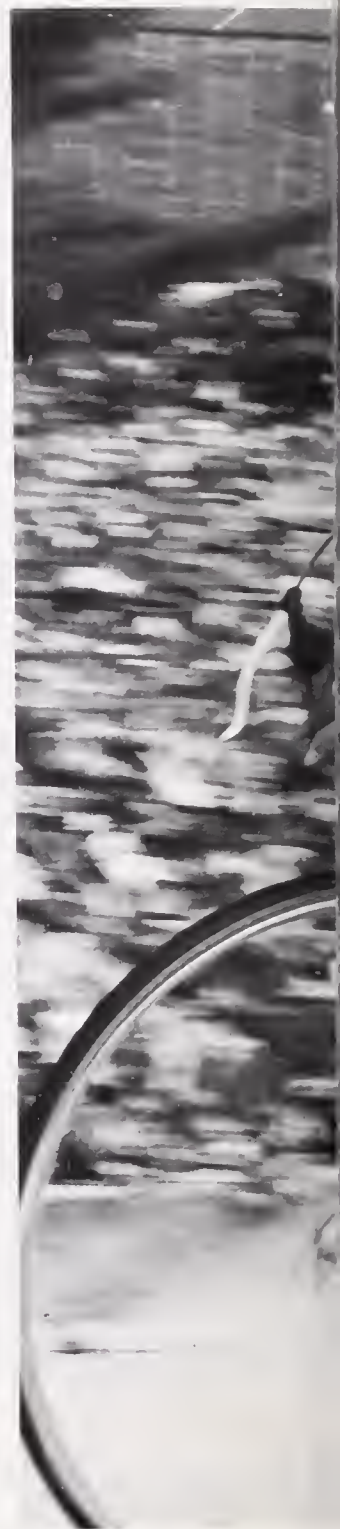

It is hoped that by fall of '76, Ms. Simpao will be able to offer a new course in the science department called Horticulture. Members met on Tuesdays at 3:00. To date, members of the club are doing experiments with factors affecting plant growth, such as light and temperature differences.

SPORTS

In order to bring together the sports gathering enthusiasts of BHS, the Sports Collectors Club was formed in December. Headed by adviser Bruce Greenly and first term president Tim Yuen, the ten member club shared acquisitions and publications, and went to conventions in Palo Alto and Cupertino. According to Yuen, they did not accomplish much, but sure had a lot of fun.

Led again by team captain Calvin Trampleasure, this year's Cycling team prepared themselves for the U.S. Cycling Federation competition by continuing its little dynasty in the East Bay championships. The consistent performances from Reid Bennett, Scot Chan, and their captain enabled the "A" division team to peddle away with top placings in meets. "B" division competitor Norman Amadon captured second in his category.

This year's team showed a lot more enthusiasm and participation than last year's team, which shows that the strike had no effect on the team.

Other members of the team were Alex Osborne, Christoph Rubach, Lee Trampleasure, and Lou Tondou.

STUDENT SENATE

As school opened, the fall Student Senate rallied behind the teacher strike. Susan Wright, fall president, and Jimmie Harold spoke at teacher rallies and encouraged students to stay home.

During most of the Senate meetings, Tom Levenson and Jimmie Harold argued over parliamentary procedure.

The school board announced a meeting for students to express their opinions about cutbacks for next year. At the meeting, Levenson, Harold, and Alison Dundes spoke out against all cutbacks, including those in counseling, ethnic studies, foreign languages, and interscholastic sports.

The Lunch Bunch, a pilot program sponsored by the Home Ec Department, was designed to teach students how to work in food service, the third largest industry in the U.S.

The program helped students learn to prepare foods in large quantities along with serving food and handling money. Although the program was not federally funded this year, it will be next year.

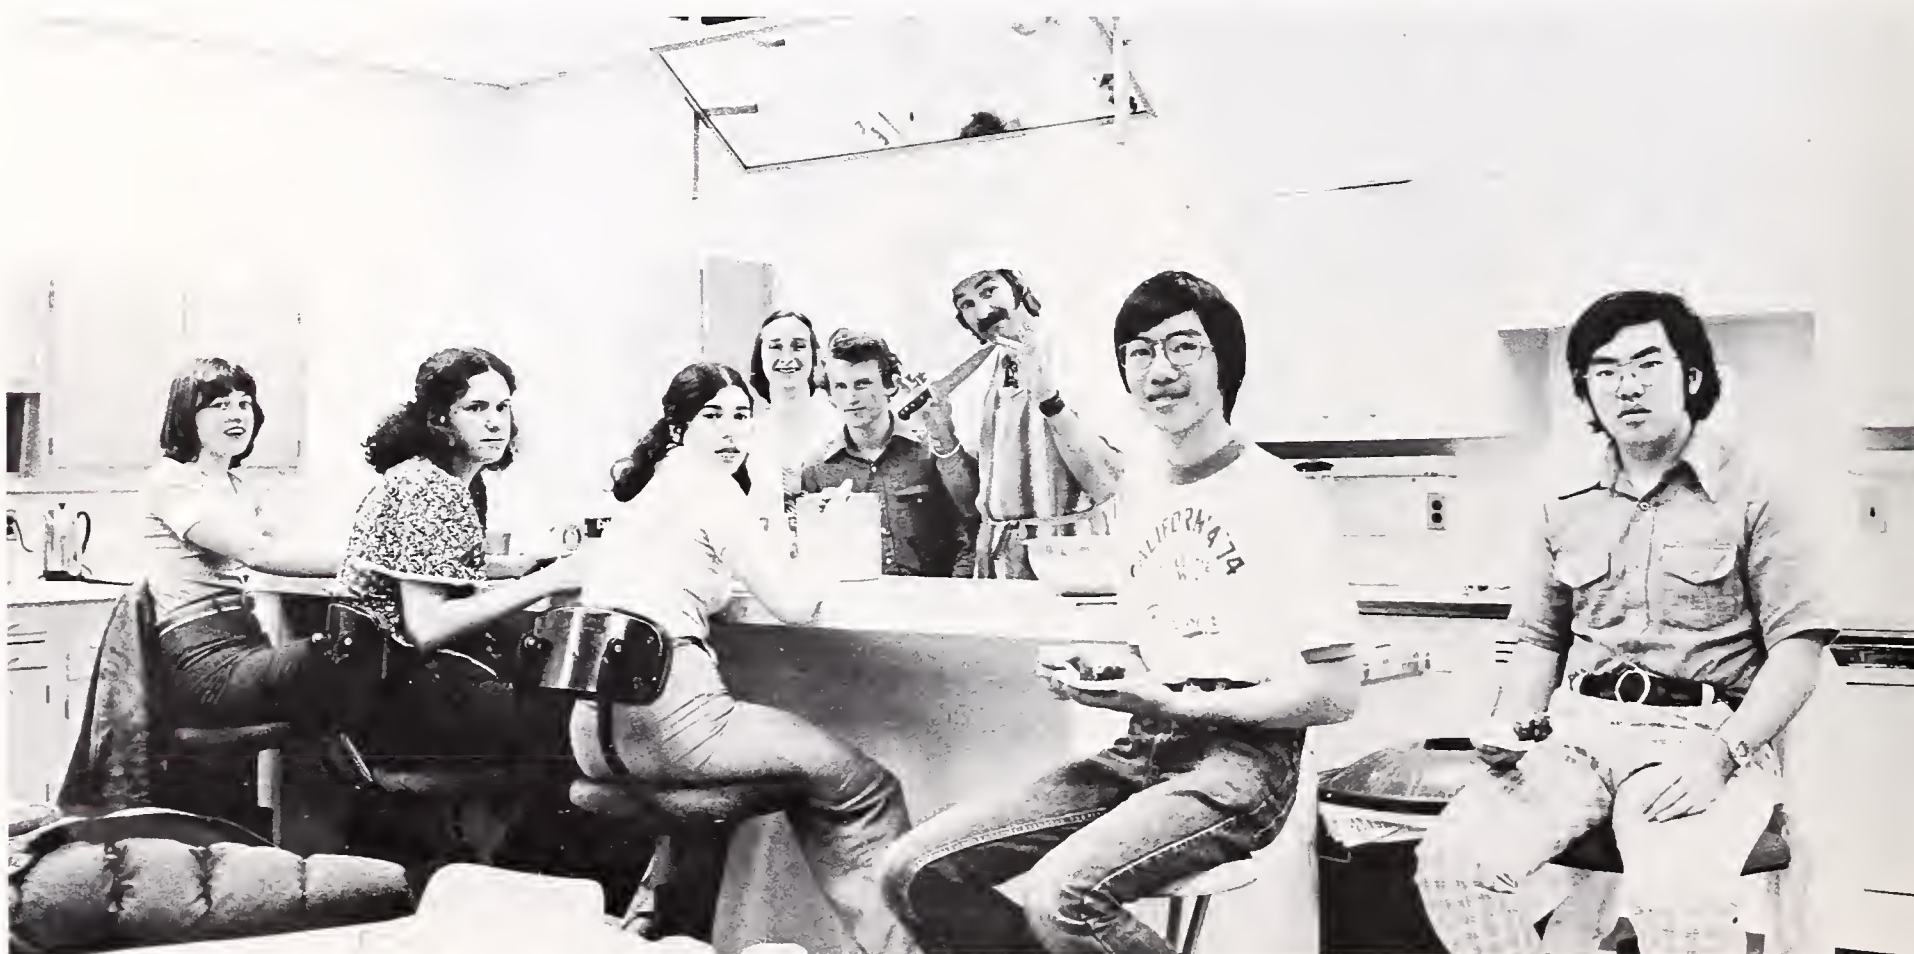

The program not only helped students, it gave teachers the chance to enjoy a well prepared lunch in a relaxed setting.

Gourmet Club is an informal organization of students who are interested in good food and its preparation. The club meets at the home of a member to prepare and eat meals composed of several dishes from a specific country or culture chosen for the evening. Dinners prepared, to name a few, have been Italian, French, and Austro-German.

Dessert Club members gathered each Monday afternoon to share recipes and food. Each week a different member brought a delicacy for the group to digest, and trips to nearby eating establishments were also planned. The club chipped in to maintain a supply of plates, cups, and other necessities, a small price to pay for some delicious desserts.

This year, the Chicano Workshop sponsored the Prison Survival Project. They concentrated on informing students of prison conditions and raising money to send Christmas packages to prisoners.

For the first time students, workers, and community people worked together to send 228 Christmas packages to prisoners. They sent packages to the Vacaville, San Quentin, Soledad, and Chino prisons. They raised $1,200 in cash and $300 in goods by soliciting at Coop stores, holding a benefit party, selling tostadas at BHS, showing a benefit film, making, packaging, and selling handmade Christmas cards, preparing a benefit breakfast, cooking up a bake sale at Odyssey School, collecting pledges and donations from community people, and committing a lot of time to working together for prisoners.

As a follow-through, the Chicano Workshop class visited Vacaville Prison, and continued to write letters to the people inside.

This year's Model U.N. club was smaller than usual, but by no means less successful. At the 24th M.U.N. at Cal, the club represented Guyana, a South American nation which is a member of the Security Council. Thomas Levenson, president of the club, was elected rapporteur by the other members of the Security Council, and was later named the Best Delegate by the chairman.

ASIAN STUDENT UNION

Once again the ASU planned a busy calendar of events in the fall to raise money for the Arlene Sano Memorial Scholarship Fund and for an annual retreat in the spring.

Fund raising events included a car wash and a dance featuring two live bands. The enterprising ASU additionally sold silk screen tee-shirts at the Autumn Festival.

The retreat took place at the Valley of the Moon in Sonoma Valley in March, and the students spent one night and two days participating in a wide variety of activities planned from various Asian cultures. Among the activities were folk dancing, Asian card games, Chariman Mao exercises and a gung-fu demonstration.

Since most of the ASU's membership was new this year, the theme of the outing was called, 'New Beginnings.'

Despite the fact that many experienced members had graduated last year, the Speech and Debate team had its best year ever. The old and new members combined efforts to get BHS second place in the district. The membership of this year's team surpassed the record membership set last year by 20 members.

The Speech and Debate team sent members to tournaments at UCLA, Stanford, Loyola, Claremont, and many other schools around California. BHS performed well at all of these tournaments. At those with especially stiff competition, Berkeley sent people into the elimination rounds. One novice debate team, Leo Levensen and Steve Silver, won novice division at the Soquel Invitational Tournament. At U.C. Berkeley, the largest tournament in the country in which 160 teams participated, Alison Dundes and Rowan Wilson were one of 32 teams which went to the elimination rounds.

This year's debate topic was, Resolved: that the development and allocations of scarce world resources should be controlled by an international organization.

Among those who made great achievements this year was Michael Sopher who qualified for the National Congress. The national tournament will be held in Colorado Springs during the first week of June. The top debate team, Rowan Wilson and Alison Dundes, debated in semi-finals at the national qualifying tournament and came closer than BHS ever has to sending a debate team to the nationals. Four BHS students made finals at the national qualifying tournament for individual events. They were: Rowan Wilson in men's extemporaneous speaking, Liz Clemens and Susan Kon in girl's extemporaneous speaking, and Jason Tilley in oratorical speaking.

The Spirit of '76? This year's theme was a serious one. Not only did the strike disrupt the school, but the yearbook grinded to an especially slow start with a small staff of 15.

Sales did not suffer, however, as Harriet Ukai, assistant editor, sold 175 books, while Rhonda Bacot, Tia Ingram and Sheila Davis, sales manager, sold 75 to earn their free yearbook.

Under the leadership of Marian Prince, underclass editor, 1200 sophomores and juniors had their pictures taken. She also designed the layout to include many candid shots that students wanted. Although not on the fall staff, Rhonda Bacot sold 75 yearbooks, assisted with much of the work and even tried to teach Patti Fisher, advisor, how to do the "Hustle."

With the spring semester, several energetic underclassmen and hardworking seniors joined the staff to help step up production. Mike Rader, spring photography editor, completed the activities section in two weeks; Paula Mishima worked industriously on ads; while Jeff Shepherd supervised the Performing Arts layout.

Tia Ingram kept the class lively while she worked as assistant editor for the senior section and then took over as activities editor for the spring.

OLIVER! from first to final curtain, had probably the most unique and varied run in Berkeley High's history. It began as a summer school project, carrying on a tradition established in 1974 with CABARET. This time, though, the production company included in cast, crew, orchestra and staff, people who ranged from grade five to college senior - all of them at one time or another members of the Berkeley schools.

OLIVER

The three-performance opening run at the end of July was a tremendous success, boasting full houses and a review that pointed to the verve, talent and polished skill of the exuberant performers.

The show was to reopen in September but because of the prolonged teachers' strike the reopening seemed to get more and more doubtful. Actors, musicians, and crew members who had graduated were leaving for college and finding jobs.

When the strike finally ended, the thought of abandoning the revival was too much to bear; and it was decided to have a marathon week wherein the whole show would be put back together and performed on a Thursday through Sunday run. It happened.

Fate, however, intervened in the form of a team of fire marshalls. Friday noon, the whole set up of the audience seats and the set was declared null, void, illegal, unsafe, and invalid. As far as they were concerned, there would be no more Oliver! The group wasn't going to accept the verdict.

Through the afternoon they labored - moving platforms, resetting lights, rehearsing dances -- to revise the the show's whole concept so that the audience could sit in its conventional space.

So it happened that the final performance occurred more than three months after its opening. Considerably transformed in look and style from the original, the audience and company alike agreed that despite -- or maybe because of - the adversities, it was an educational, artistic, emotional and financial success.

Colorful solos and new charts characterized the debut of the 1975-76 Jazz Ensemble. The Ensemble had a busy schedule this year, playing in such places as Diablo Valley College and several Jazz Festivals as well as playing six home concerts. The Ensemble also went south for a concert in March.

This year's talent included the very talented sax player Peter Apfelbaum and Carl Jones, Tony Williams on the drums, Gerald Goudeau playing the trumpet, and Kevin Clark on guitar.

Phil Hardymon, the band leader, was making plans for the Monterey Jazz Festival in June. The Quartet made it last year but this year Hardymon hoped that both the quartet and the Quartet and the Ensemble would make it.

Gospel Music is a celebration of life as friend of mankind. We continue the celebration which our forefathers celebrated when dawns were young in Africa. Through Gospel Music we give clue to our understanding of life as well as our response to life.

The Gospel Choir is essential to the Berkeley Unified School District efforts at humanizing curriculum. This step in the direction of justice in education has been of great benefit to the school district.

GOSPEL

Mr. Jesse W. Anthony and Mr. John McBride have brought together 250 of the most talented students in the school district to sing the good news. they have workshops with leaders in the field of Gospel Music such as The Rev. Doctor James Cleveland, Mrs. Helen Stevens and others. They have traveled to performances as far as Seattle, Washington.

This year's Chorale had 65 selected voices and was led by Leslie Abrahamson, President, and Sue Ham, Secretary Treasurer.

The group was invited to perform at the California Music Educators convention in Los Angeles and the Junior Bach Festival. The Chorale's tour included Stockton, the Grand Canyon, Tempe, Arizona, Los Angeles, and Magic Mountain.

While on tour, the Chorale performed three settings of "Hodie Christus Natus Est" by Sweelinck, Schutz and Palestrina, "Bach's Cantata 150, Brahms's Zigeunerlieder," plus an American selection in honor of America's Bicentennial.

At Christmas time the Chorale caroled on campus and in the community. The group performed at the First Congregational Church and sold holly.

Faced with the problems of no men to make up the Mixed Chorus, Larry Barker, director, had the girls in the class get 25 recruits. With their new recruits, Mixed Chorus began in the spring.

Both Women's and Mixed Chorus (sometimes referred to as Kiddie Chorale) were the training ground for Concert Chorale, as they performed in concerts with the Chorale and Chamber Singers.

CHORUS

The Chamber Singers, selected from Concert Chorale, performed challenging quartets by Rossini and Madrigals by Gesualdo and Monteverdi.

Barker credited the singers with eight outstanding seniors who were: sopranos Cindy Lyness, Lisa Langille, and Cathy Taylor, alto Sue Ham, tenor Robbie Calvert and Jeremy Renton, and bass John Stenmark and Kenny Maclin.

Berkeley's superior music program has produced plenty of talent, but there has never been a group like the Jazz Combo.

Last summer a very appreciative audience at the prestigious Monterey Jazz Festival rose in applauding three high school freshman named Harold Foreman, Tony Williams and Peter Apfelbaum, and Rodney Franklin, a junior.

But this year was even more impressive. The group travelled to festivals in Reno, Diablo Valley, Pomona and Magic Mountain, as well as a circuit of performances in East Bay schools.

At the Pomona festival, the combo, took top honors for the best combok best pianist, tenor soloist, bassist and drummer.

Under the direction of Phil Hardymon, the Combo hoped to return to the Monterey Jazz Festival this fall.

CREW

The production crews design, build and create the lighting for sets, design and sew costumes and put on make-up for the Performing Arts Department. For the fall production of 'Roundheads and Peakheads' the crews also made masks. The three crews: Stagecraft,, Makeup, and Costume Design, work separately until two weeks before the production, when they put it all together.

Diane McDonald, technical director of the crews, said that the greatest quality the crews can have is the ability to put set design, lighting, props, makeup and cues all together monthly in only two weeks.

Berkeley High's bicentennial super-production, Roundheads and Peakheads, was generally acknowledged to be one of the PAD's most ambitious projects. Bertolt Brecht's political parable, written during Hitler's rise to power, portrays a corrupt society upheld by the racial theories of a dictator who is actually the pawn of the rich landowners. This bitter story is presented in a deliberately stagey way, with speeches directly to the audience, scene changes in full view, and actors masked to preserve their symbolic characters. The director, Carl Brush, further enhanced the production's surreal style by costuming the actors in the clothes of the American Revolution, but studding scenes with the anachronisms of newsreels and radios.

The audience, too, found the play challenging, almost overwhelming. Both political messages and slapstick comedy came thick and fast; the stage spectacle revolutionaries.

Everyone who participated in the long and complicated production process found it a challenge. The actors absorbed the presentational Brechtian style. The costume crew created scores of eighteenth century costumes for landowners, whores, and revolu-was lush; Brecht's unusual prose and Eisler's atonal music demanded concentration. Even those who could absorb these might be stopped cold by a brawling Mother Superior or a trio of precision-dancing storm-troopers. Nevertheless, by the final tableau the audience was completely won over and cheering the tionaries, among others. The make-up crew constructed extraordinary and impressive masks. The set construction crew built a multi-level set adaptable to a palace or a brothel. The technical crew occupied itself with the complex details of spots, movies, slides, and soundtracks.

The African Dance Ensemble, a newly formed dance group at Berkeley High, was formed by interested Black students along with the teacher and accompanist from the ever popular Haitian Dance classes.

Despite cancellation of the class, it was reinstated after phone calls and visits to the School Board from parents and students.

Once started, its popularity boomed, which resulted in performances all around the Bay Area at various universities, colleges, elementary and high schools, churches, and other community affairs.

A.D.E. (pronounced "ah - day," which it is commonly called), consists of approximately 20 students, both male and female. The group performs dances from countries in Africa: Ghana, Mozambique, East and South African countries. One such dance is the Boot Dance, which is performed by the men in the group, speaks out against the injustice of the apartheid system (a system of harsh discrimination in South Africa.) They performed welcome dances, fun dances and puberty dances. The class was designed to add a much needed cultural enrichment to the BHS campus and the community.

Students around the campus describe the dance group as, "Together, hip, all right," and "I just dig it."

This year's spring production was something of a unique event. To start with, the Performing Art department organized the first annual Berkeley High School Drama Festival, which was to include shows from Willard, King and West Campus.

Berkeley High's contribution to the program was a group of three one-acts: 'The Death and Life of Sneaky Fitch,' by James L. Rosenberg, directed by Carl Brush; 'The Interview,' by Jean Claude van Italie, directed by Tim Doyle; 'The Sandbox,' by Edward Albee, directed by Loretta Sheridan.

In addition to the festival, which took place on May 13, the one-acts were performed two other times in alternation with the spring musical, 'The Fantasticks,' directed by Jay Manly.

DANCE PRODUCTION

The mood went from one end of the spectrum to the other in this year's Dance Production '76. The presentation, which was held in the Little Theatre, ran for two weekends in late January.

The show was an entertaining array of dances ranging from the futuristic "Checks on Majority Rule", to the frolicking "Country Cousins", to the forceful "Liberation". The Dances, for the most part, were choreographed by the students themselves.

The inventiveness of the dancers was certainly apparent as the performance showed off dances like "Puttin' on the Ritz", a spiffy piece adorned by top hats and canes, sung by Jeremy Renton; a playful dance called "Will You Walk a Little Faster?", the story of a reluctant snail, with narration by Robbie Calvert; and the wonderfully insane "Chicken Noodle Soup", a truly nutty dance starring Liz McDonough and Nancy Lena.

Other dances included "Berkeley Melody", a Busby Berkeley-type piece; "Station Break", a work using the recording of a radio as it changed stations at random; "Wrong Side of the Bed", where a tormented Maureen Weaver is whisked off to work by annoying figures in black suits; and "Shoreleave", a vibrant tap dance depicting three sailors in their spare time on land.

Credit should go to all the fine choreographers, the able accompaniment of Paul Arslanian and Leslie Abrahamson, the thoughtful leadership of instructor Marcia Singman, and stage manager Martin Brennis, who, during the middle of one performance, made a delicate repair on the lighting equipment, permitting the show to go on unhurt in the second half. From anybody's point of view, Dance Production '76 was a thoroughly enjoyable experience.

There are times during the lonely hours of practice I sometimes stop and ask myself what am I really doing? Why should I punish my body day after day?

But then, I see myself playing before a packed arena, leading the powerful Jackets to a championship. I outplay all my childhood idols who seemed to have declined with time.

Then I come back to reality, and practice harder and harder. Trying to reach my goal, striving for Number One.

One thing kept a very good football team from being a very great grid squad - turnovers. Fumbles and interceptions plagued the Jackets throughout their six win - three loss season, which left them in second place in the big six division of the ACAL.

The case of fumblitis became evident in the season opener. Against powerhouse Washington of Fremont the Jackets fumbled seven times and still lost by only a touchdown. Even turnovers couldn't stop Berkeley...

the next week as they battled their way to a 21-6 win over San Ramon.

In the ACAL opener, BHS and El Cerrito fought to a 7-7 tie through 47 minutes before the Jackets went 95 yards in two plays (Ricky Taylor's 33 yard run and Jeff Ransom's 62 yard touchdown pass to Carleton Smith) to pull out a 13-7 win. Kennedy's Eagles scored immediately following a Berkeley fumble, then succumbed to the Jackets' steady onslaught, 19-6. That set up a showdown with Pinole, the division-deciding tilt.

Ransom hit Ricky Survine on a 22 yard scoring play, the only one of the day for BHS. Pinole answered with two touchdowns and a 31 yard field goal to wrap it up.

After a two week rest the Jackets crushed Alameda and San Leandro before being hit by the Homecoming jinx. This year De Anza topped Berkeley, 22-15. As time ran out the Jackets had the ball on De Anza's three yard line.

The season almost ended as it had begun. Pacific scored twice on BHS fumbles and took a 14-0 lead. But this time the Jackets were not to be denied. They scored four times to beat the Vikings, 27-14.

This year's team was a young one, especially at skill positions. Soph quarterback Jeff Ransom, junior running backs Clarence Jackson and Ricky Taylor, and junior wide receiver Carleton Smith all played key roles in the team's success.

All-League honors went to junior defensive lineman Issaih Williams, seniors Gary Lewis, Anthony Ferguson, and Ken McLaughlin. Second team All-ACAL included seniors Ronnie Powell and Eric Parker with Honorable Mention going to Ransom, Jackson, junior Shawn Stewart, and seniors Michael Boyd, Ricky Survine, Andrew Cho, Mike Lopez and Wayne Hodge.

HOME COMING

Despite a misty day and a delayed homecoming, BHS's spirit shone through.

Franklin Wong was crowned homecoming king, a first for BHS, while Terri Iino was honored as homecoming queen. Yjvetta Caldwell and Tosha Weaver were first and second runner-ups.

Harriet Ukai, Cynthia Dright and Cheryl Brooks were elected to Senior, Junior and Sophomore class princesses.

During the rally on the morning of November 7, the seniors, with great enthusiasm, won the Spirit Cup. Before the rally, the cheering squads lead the parade through downtown followed by the football team on a fire truck.

BHS's spirit remained alive during the game despite the loss to the De Anza Dons, 22-15.

Success was the most used word to describe the Soph-Frosh harriers as the season drew to a close in November. Super-sophs Greg Bachand, Carlos Martinez, David Fike, Jake Viebrock, Carl Williams, Stanley Nakaso, and freshman star Colin McGuire comfortably closed their season with a major title tucked under their belt.

It all began with the league trials on Oct. 29, with the varsity team of Jim Carson, James McCoy, Nat Crocker, Jason Winnett, Jeff Houston, Gordon Elder, and Tim Lynch qualifying for the finals on Nov. 6. The soph-frosh team also qualified.

After working out the bugs, the soph-frosh team blazed to second place in the championship meet to qualify for the Bay Area championship a week later.

Western Regional Youth Council President of the NAACP, Packy White, was unable to compete for the varsity because he had to attend a formal association dinner in San Francisco.

Lacking the talent of White, the varsity plunged into fifth place. Utilizing the varsity squad's loss as impetus, the soph-frosh team dazzled and amazed the competition by subduing first place and the championship plaque for the Division meet.

Going into the North Coast Championships and the top-ranked team in their division, the soph-frosh runners attempted to make a repeat performance of their division win, but success was deterred by the illness of Colin McGuire. Continuing to push towards the top, the harriers could only reach fifth by the time the race was over.

Freshman Lynn Bachand made a big debut in girl's cross-country this year by becoming the best female soph-frosh harrier on the North Coast. A hint of her ability appeared at the Soquel Invitational where she placed 17th.

At the Pleasant Hill Invitational, she finished second, and at the Foothill League and Division II championships she led the field across the finish line.

After qualifying for the North Coast Section meet finals, Lynn placed first in the race and brought home the championship medal.

Elizabeth Vance, Eleanor Hall, Mag Sunday, Elizabeth King, Karen Cotton, and Colleen Stagers made good showings all through the season.

Alameda center John Placourakis scored 14 goals to pace his Hornets to a 23-10 win over BHS for this year's ACAL water polo championship.

BHS fans had hoped to see a jacket victory but instead watched a superior Hornet team defeat their favorites for the second time in the season.

Coach Bill Wilson admitted to having an inferior team. "Alameda is much faster than we are," said Wilson. "Offensively we had to move them to the side of the pool and didn't do it. Their speed really shows when they go down the middle."

The Jackets were close at the half, 5-5 on goals by Garrick Jauregui and Mike Bender, and great goaltending by Willie Morris. Placourakis went wild in the second half, scoring eight goals, as the Hornets pulled away.

"Without Jauregui and Daniel Harvey, we'd really have been in trouble," said Wilson. "They're our best swimmers and we wouldn't have been in the game without them."

The Jackets were hurt this season by the strike. "Eight varsity players either moved or went to college" declared Wilson. "The strike didn't help us at all."

Under the leadership of coach Don Allin, the girl's gymnastics team went through an undefeated compulsory season to capture the GFAL championship.

There are four classes on the team - beginners, intermediate, novice and advanced. Sophomore Susan Heilig and senior Cecilia Distefano were the only members of the advanced team this year, and coach Maggie Oldershaw praised the two for "exerting tremendous leadership" and, in a sense, serving as assistant coaches.

Oldershaw credited "a very hard working team and a dedicated coaching staff" as a major factor in their success, along with a strong rapport, which pulled them together during a crises. Allin also noted that the team members liked to help each other out.

Oldershaw described the troubled times as "rough breaks with scoring" when the judges seemingly underrated performances. But rough breaks or not, the team added another championship to BHS's record book.

The team has been attending a field hockey camp during the summer, which has not only helped them to tie such teams as Hayward State University, but has also displayed their dedication, diligence and desire to improve. These same principles will be upheld next year with the returning varsity and the promising J.V.'s such as Sylvia Hsi, Linda Fenton, Monica Smith, Teri Klonsky, Laurie Harris, Jessica Batres, and Tanya Collins.

Despite losing some of last year's key players, the 1976 soccer team was an improved one, winning a second straight ACAL championship.

The team, composed primarily of young and fruitful talent such as sophomores Tim Curran and Karim Dehestani, was guided by a few veteran apples to a 13-3 record. Among the vets were a senior brigade of Ronnie Walker, Pakash Patel, Robert Yamiuchi, Robin Jew, Don Teeter, Ned Garret, and Eric Lenz.

Coach Willie White administered a successful conditioning program which helped the team run most of its opponents into the ground. The season's highlights included a crucial 3-2 victory over De La Salle and a 10-0 massacre against Richmond.

Speed and quickness were the game plans for this year's Berkeley Jackets. Playing an effective player to player defense and executing a fast breaking offense, the Jackets easily tromped over all league competition, only falling short to the returning league champs, the Acalanes Dons.

Coaches Mary Lee Carey and Jane Sturm felt that the team had exceptional talent with starters Lydia Epton, Candy Ross, Michelle Jett, floor leader Paula Mishima and high pointer Debra Davis, who excited crowds with her heavy rebounding, sharp shooting and dazzling drives. The bench was vital to the team as it contributed such players as Diane Golden and Patty Lock.

Though second place is not bad, Coach Sturm and Carey were disappointed and frustrated for they felt the team had first place potential.

Plagued by fouls and an occasional slump, the Jackets did not always play up to their full potential and had to settle for second place.

In a season with 2,311 points scored by them, and 1,962 points scored against, Berkeley High's basketball team failed in its bid for the North Coast Section crown by two points. The Jackets, coached by Paul Daniels, won 26 of their 33 games as well as the Anderson Tournament championship.

They captured a seventh consecutive ACAL title

Unlike past teams of the Chenier, Lambert, and Ransom eras, no one person stood out. BHS' success could be attributed not only to each of the starters, but also the second and third strings. In fact the three groups were often interchanged to the point where there was no telling who would start on a given day.

The three steady starters were all-leaguers Michael Alston, Reggie Howard, and Kerry Wooldridge. Howard and Wooldridge took all tournament honors at Anderson and Richmond, as well as being named Prep-of-the-week during the season. Alston, often overlooked, was a steady player in the role of field general. He led the team in assists, as well as having a scoring average in double figures.

The Jackets went undefeated in ACAL play as the only team to come close was El Cerrito, a 67-65 loser. In the playoffs, Berkeley ripped De Anza, then fell to El Cerrito in a 60-59 thriller. Since BHS had won the round robin, they had a second chance against the Gauchos. El Cerrito took a 40-39 halftime lead but the Jackets finally put it all together, leading by 14 at the end of the third quarter and then coasting to a 78-64 win.

Stanley Cotton, considered by many the quickest guard around, started in the backcourt with Alston. Junior transfer James Foster, who became eligible late in the season, was a strong addition to the front line. Larry Guess was the sixth man on the squad, and played the role to perfection. Guess came off the bench to spark Berkeley to victory on more than one occasion. Then there were hustling Kerry Bland, exciting guard Michael Wilson, second year man Fred Lewis, towering Lambert Jackson, Harold Williams, Derrall Chandler, Gary Holmes, Andy Taylor, James Miller, and Gary Lewis.

Besides winning the Anderson title, BHS finished third in the Richmond City Invitational, enroute to a 12-5 practice record.

In past years, BHS would have headed to Oakland for the prestigious Tournament of Champions. But political feuding had caused the North Coast Section (NCS) to refuse to sanction the TOC, thereby barring its teams, including Berkeley. So the Jackets instead headed for Redwood High and the first round of the NCS AAA championships.

Marin County Athletic League champions Terra Linda gave BHS a fight to the last ten seconds, at which point James Foster made a critical free throw to give Berkeley a three point lead and the game.

The semi-finals and championship games were held at Cal-State Hayward. Against Hayward, BHS struggled early and late, but a solid second and third quarter effort was enough to give the Jackets a 69-61 win. At one point Berkeley had a 17 point stranglehold on the Farmers, but as the game moved into its final moments, had to call on all of its assets to advance into the finals against Catholic Athletic League titleholders, St. Joseph's of Alameda.

Only a few sloppy sequences and a pair of questionable charging calls kept Berkeley from blowing the championship game open in its early moments. As it was, the Jackets opened a 20-9 first quarter lead, and led by nine at halftime.

St. Joseph's surged back into contention in the second half, catching BHS late in the third quarter, then opening a five point lead as minutes left in the '76 season, Reggie Howard, Kerry Bland, and Mike Alston combined for five straight tallies to tie the game at 55. The Pilots opted to stall for the last shot, and guard Cecil Brown was fouled with 11 seconds left. The all-tourney selection hit both shots and Berkeley's final shot and tip failed to produce any points. The North Coast Section title had evaded the Jackets, 57-55.

The Spirit Cup, however, did not. Continuing the tradition of the TOC, Berkeley's cheering section won the Cup and placed Reggie Howard on the all-tournament team.

3. Walter Seull uses head and arm hold.
4. Curtis Chin traps his opponent with a tight waist and ankle pick-up hold.
5. Greg Thomas, a junior, was the team's standout.

According to coach Dick Podewell, this year's squad of wrestlers were greatly improved over last year's team. The team did not set high goals, but instead just worked a little bit harder and concentrated more. Their main goal was to reduce the times they lost by pins. Most of the wrestlers worked hard and a few let both themselves and the team down.

The hardest matches this year were against El Cerrito and San Jose. The team's overall standout was junior Greg Thomas, who had a total of 33 wins and 7 losses.

Thomas took fourth place in the North Coast Section.

Dan Robbins, a senior, also qualified for NCS. The team took second place in the ACAL. Coach Podewell feels that the team came close to its full potential while compiling an 11 win 4 loss record.

After falling one point short of first place at the '75 San Joaquin North Coast Section junior varsity meet, Berkeley High's gymnasts were back at it this year as the school's varstiy team.

The squad was led by four all-around top performers

Larry King, John Gagnon, James Ely, and Philip Johnson. Other members included Robert Burri, Larry Smith on pommel horse; Andre Dixon on floor exercise, parallel bars and still rings; Ron Webb on floor exercise and vaulting; Chris Valentine on parellel bars and vaulting.

The team was under the direction of Don Allin. Allin, who has judged at meets for Cal, possesses all the qualifications needed to judge at the Olympics this year.

GYMNASTICS

Hours of strenuous practice molded this year's Badminton team into what looked like an unbeatable squad. Coach Nadine Gardner felt that the team had the potential to go undefeated because the women's team had exceptional depth in both singles and doubles while the men's team returned from an undefeated '75 season.

With school starting five weeks late, and volleyball season right around the corner, the team got off to a spirited start. Even though the team practiced many hours under the constant coaching of Louise Jones, West Campus P.E. teacher, they ranked low in League standings.

Finally, having enough fencers to warrant forming a team, Berkeley joined the League and was scheduled to fence in three tournaments in March and April. The seven person team placed highly in these contests, after having practiced for five hours a week since October. Jean Gregerson coached the team along with expert fencer, Eleanor Turney.

SWIMMING

With an enlarged team and the skills of freestyler Michael Bender, breastroker Daniel Harvey, backstroker Garrick Jauregui, freestyler Norman Link, and freestyler Willie Morris, the BHS boys' swim team has an excellent chance and high hopes for placing well in the ACAL.

Despite being under the direction of a new coach, BHS' girls' swim team managed to come in fourth in the Foothill Athletic League finals, with the help of Janice Gillies swimming breaststroke, Diane Burger freestyle, and the relay team of Heather Anderson, Diane Burger, Janice Gillies, and Carolyn Stickney.

Heading for their seventh straight ACAL championship, this year's tennis team is prepared to keep up the record of one of the winningest teams at BHS with an all-around successful season, competing in tough, non league matches as well.

The varsity singles ladder, in order, was Jeff Kendall, Robbie Kwock, Jeff Lena, Charles Williams, and Stephen Landauer. Varsity doubles teams were Geoff Cooke and Stuart Lowry, number one, and Eric Hansen and Andy Rader, number two.

Coach Jim Bragg concentrated with the team on mental toughness in competition and improved team spirit in a highly individualized sport.

Placing third in the league, the girl's tennis team ended their season with a record of five wins and three losses. Among their more proud defeats was against Piedmont, who has held the league championship for the past three years.

Kim Heine finished the season first on the ladder. Dixie Lewis placed second and Reina Tom and Ginger Gee shared the number three spot. Except for one match, the top doubles position belonged to Dixie Stevenson and Theresa Williams. Sylvia Mitchell and Anne Pope played number two doubles and remained undefeated throughout the season.

With a veteran dominated boat, the crew team was again the team to beat in the Bay Area.

This year's crew had eight seniors and nine returning oarsmen making competition for the varsity boat very intense, and producing one of Berkeley's best boats ever.

Last year's coxswain graduated early, leaving an open position in the boat. But the spot was quickly filled by sophomore Greg Lesher, who proved to be a valuable asset to the team.

With outstanding oarsmen as seniors Mats Wichman, Dave Lesher, Rick Nichelman, Eric Lenz, Mike Rath, and John Stenmark, the spirit was very optimistic.

The team looked forward to a winning season.

Having experienced golfers this year, and finishing second to Alameda last year, Berkeley's golf team was a top contender for the ACAL championship

The team was led by four solid golfers. The most consistent was Matt Watson, followed by Jack Larmour, Bill Houghton, and Billy Kagawa, all strong golfers.

The remaining members of the team were David Yip, Mike Lindheim, David Hirvo, Brian Fensky, Matt Braley, Willard Tressell, Mike Mathews, Kevin Fong, and Joe Colter.

Determined not to have a carry-over of attitude problems from last year, Coach Willie White created a new positive winning attitude which led to a very successful '76 track season.

A.C. Stephens was outstanding in the 330 hurdles and the 220, while newcomer Mark Kent excelled in the 100 and Greg Bacchand was consistent in the mile. Shelton Walker and James McCoy were very impressive in both the 440 and 880.

Junior Spencer Strange and Kenny Rollins were excellent in the 330 hurdles along with record holder Stephens.

The 440 relay team (Carleton Smith, Mark Kent, John Finger, and A.C. Stephens) clocked an impressive early season time of 43.0 The Yellowjacket mile quartet (Alex Johnston, John Finger, Ronnie Walker, and A.C. Stephens) were top East Bay contenders all season.

Junior Packy White and Jim Carson led the two mile.

The field events were a key factor to the team's success. Juniors Anthony Hill and Issiah Williams led the way in the shot put. Keith Briar added strength to the discus team, with Hill twirling the platter 164-8 early in the year.

High jumpers Rod Roundtree and Clarence Jackson were competitive all season.

Coach White hopes with the rebuilding program he started since 1974 that the team's strength will pay off with a trip to the State Meet at U.C. Berkeley.

11. Annette Robinson and Freida Cobbs exchange the baton.

After failing to take their second consecutive State Championship last year, Coach Willie White hoped this year's girl's track team would return to the State Meet for another try at the title.

The 440 and mile relay teams consisted of two outstanding 100 and 220 sprinters, Freida Cobbs and Annette Robinson. Also on the 440 relay team were hurdlers Candy Ross, Kim Burgess, and Mag Sunday.

The mile relay team (Cobbs, Robinson, Burgess, and Hallie Parker) posted excellent times throughout the season.

In the 440 returnees Hallie Parker and Karen Murray proved to be an important part of the team.

In the long distance events Karen Cotton, Laura Creg, and Carrie Austin were very important clogs to the team.

In the field events Vanessa Brooks and Diane Shirley controlled the shot put and discus.

Coming off of a satisfactory pre-season with a 4-2-1 record, Berkeley High's baseball team was honored with the number one placing in the East Bay coaches preliminary poll. Re-cooperating from last year's bitter loss to Cordova in the championship game of the Redding Tournament, Berkeley has strengthened, being fundamentally sound and showing sparkling offense with infielders Eric Parker, Walter Suell, Keith Harrell, Monte Gordon, Shooty Babbitt, Mike Foster, and outfielders Jeff Ransom, Verlyn Papillion, Greg Cantrell, David Wilder, Matt Jackson, and Ricky Survine.

The Jacket's strong point is the pitching staff—maybe the best Berkeley High has ever accumulated at a single time. This staff consists of aces Willie Hardwick, a junior, sophomore Jeff Ransom, and seniors Verlyn Papillion, Greg Jackson, Stanley Cotton, bullpen ace Michael Wilson, David Wilder, and Keith Harrell the last two sophs. The Jackets also possess devastating offensive power. All of the starters except one smashed at least one home run during the practice season.

Berkeley lost the ACAL playoffs last year to Richmond, but with a little luck the Jackets should finish the season with the championship crown.

Seniors search for Spirit of '76

This year school got off to a poor start for the seniors. It seemed like for once, all of us were anxious to begin our last joyful year at BHS. But our enthusiasm began to diminish when we learned that the teachers were going on strike. At first we were elated at the thought of having vacation extended an extra three days. But as the strike dragged on and on for five weeks, we all started to worry if we were going to graduate on time. We also felt frustrated that we couldn't help resolve the strike, by either going to school or staying home.

If we came to school during the strike, we didn't learn anything from the inept substitutes who didn't stimulate, motivate, or inspire us. A closed cafeteria and snack bar didn't help build our morale either.

When the strike did come to an abrupt end five weeks later, we all experienced mixed feelings. Some of us had lost desire to begin school for a second time. Others were anxious to return to school and begin meeting college application deadlines.

Because of the ambivalent feelings we were experiencing, dissension was created among the students and staff. Feelings of apathy sprouted and soon a lack of spirit began to exist.

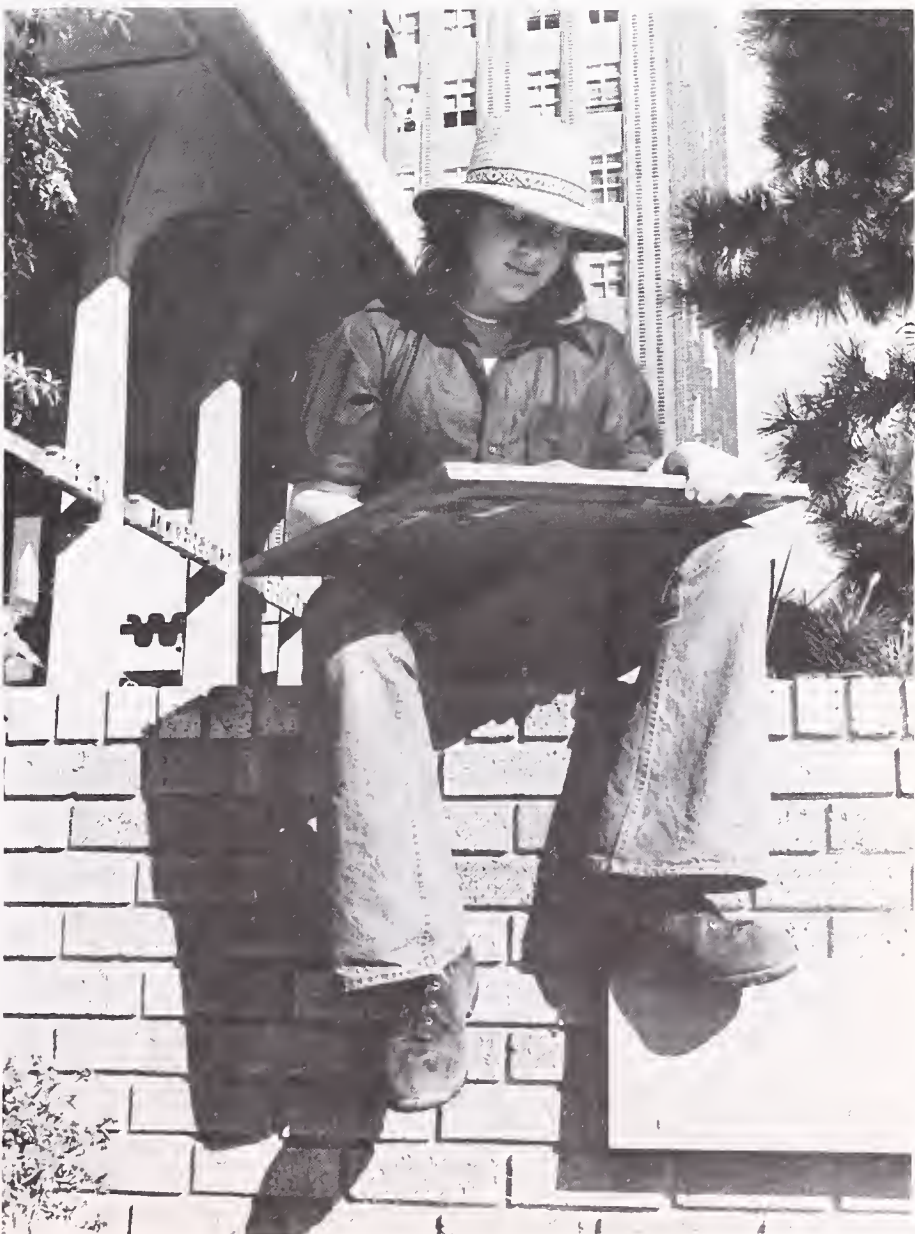

However, things began to look up when the BHS basketball team led the league with an undefeated record of 10-0, thus enabling them to enter the ACAL playoffs. Victorious in the playoffs, BHS participated in the North Coast Section Championships.

The lack of spirit really began to disappear when the senior class planned a thrilling graduation night at Great America, an amusement park that opened in April, and the senior ball at Electric Underground, in the Bank of America building in San Francisco.

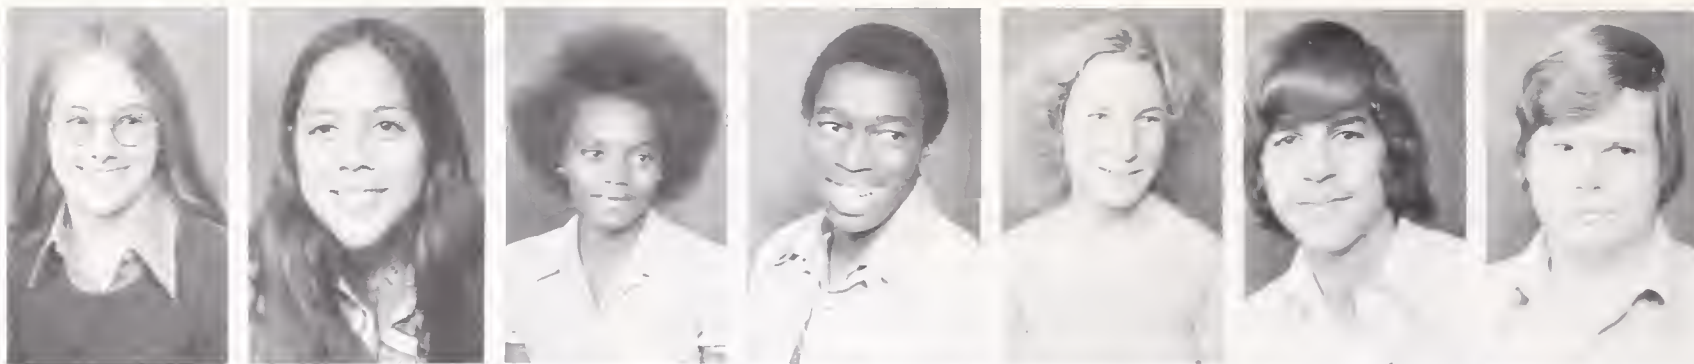

So even though we got off to a slow start, the spirit of '76 is here to stay.

Juniors... caught in the middle

As juniors we all realize how frustrating it is, at times, to be in the middle, caught in limbo. We are unable to enjoy the advantages of being one year younger or older.

Being a sophomore was great. There was the excitement of being on the main campus, being one of 3,000 students and the innocent smiles that could get you through almost anything.

Lurking above, however, were the seniors. Seemingly untouchables who had all the answers and all the advantages. Next year it will be our turn for elective classes, double lunch periods and finally, graduation.

Being in the middle didn't seem to stop the junior class this year from raising money and having an all around great year. To raise money they sponsored two car washes, a dance, and a bake sale, not to mention a raffle and hot links sale. These activities helped to make their mid-May (junior) prom a success. One thing is for sure; the class of '77 had no intention of letting the spirit of '76 pass them by.

Hey, you gotta be a sophomore....

"HEY, you gotta be a sophomore to be cool!

A lot of people would say, 'Oh, wow, a sophomore?' You gotta be an eleventh or a twelfth grader to be cool, but I feel like I'm part of everyone.

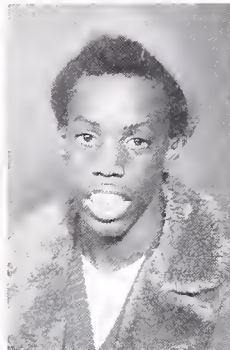

I really like going to BHS, although the strike really messed things up. Because I came from another school and came in late, I got lousy classes. At first, I was scared to death, but now I feel sure of myself and everyone else around me. I feel like a tenth grader!"

Being a loud and spirited group, the class of '78 just missed winning the spirit cup. During the first semester we got off to a slow start because of the teacher's strike. We made up for the lost time in the second semester with bake sales, a dance, and other money-raising activities.

The first semester, the sophomore class officers were: Elizabeth Echols, president; Lisa Anderson, vice-president; Elizabeth Bakalyer, secretary; Sandra McPherson, social secretary; Donna Ward, treasurer. The second semester saw Sandra McPherson replaced by Jennifer Anderson and Elma Forbes, while Donna Ward was replaced by Joshua Muldavin.

Elation!

The Board gave us no choice

We couldn't retain our integrity, intelligence or self worth.

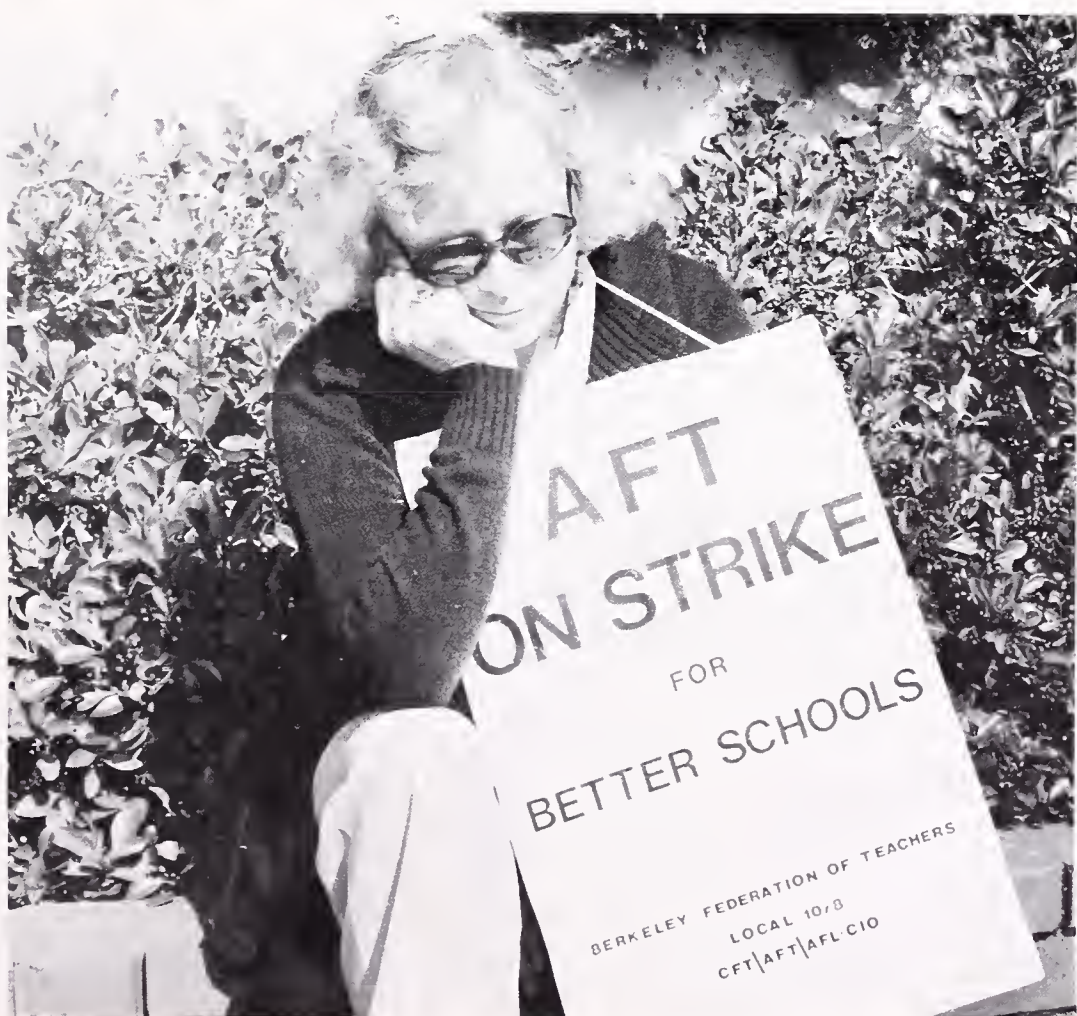

Depression.

These were the main reactions of the staff to the first Berkeley teachers strike. The strike which was to last only a few days, stretched into five weeks as those on the picket lines carried signs, socialized and held potlucks to keep their spirits up.

For the first time in many years, the striking staff not only got to know each other, but had a cause to work for. On the last day of the the strike, the staff marched to the library to begin a new relationship with the school's administration.

A united staff revives spirit

This spirit carried over into the social life of the staff. The social committee, headed by David Eichorn and Carl Perkins, organized two potlucks on minimum day schedules. All staff members were welcomed and most contributed their favorite dishes.

Once back in school, the staff willingly began taking part in supervising activities including judging the spirit cup to see which class would win.

The staff welcomed the spirit of '76 by reviving the annual Christmas party that was held at Barabara Scales home. Again the staff willingly shared their cooking talents.

then there were the meetings...

1. Richard Dillingham cooks at faculty Christmas party.
2. Jim Catlett points out to John Martinez that the senior class has the most spirit.
3. Terry Doran, Hannah Myers, and Thomasine Wilson are impressed by the senior class spirit.
4. Anthony Bakos shows Edward Lui the best dishes at faculty Christmas party.
5. Emily Reed, Shiela Kilgore, Birdie Hagains, Robert Tryon, and Rebert Thorton having a good time at the faculty Christmas party.
6. Larissa Rulofson raves for one more bite.

To help the staff have a greater voice in making decisions which affected classes and curriculum, the newly formed tacticians, under the leadership of Thomasine Wilson, took over the faculty meetings, ending the short - but sweet- 15 minute meetings called by Tom Parker, principal.

Parker quickly accepted the faculty's need to have more power, making the transition smooth and pleasant.

The meetings were lead by the firm hand and good humor of Top Tactician Tommy, as she was affectionately called. Lead by Wilson, the staff opposed the cutbacks in counselors, foreign languages, interscholastic sports, ethnic studies and in all other programs.

In a letter to the Board the Tacticians stated: "We cannot consider reduction or elimination of staff who work directly with students, and of a total program which offers students immense variety and enrichment, as either creative or thoughtful."

1. Thomasine Wilson, top Tactician.

2. Caroline Smid, Larissa Rulofson, and Samantha Lee seem to agree with what's being said at faculty meeting.

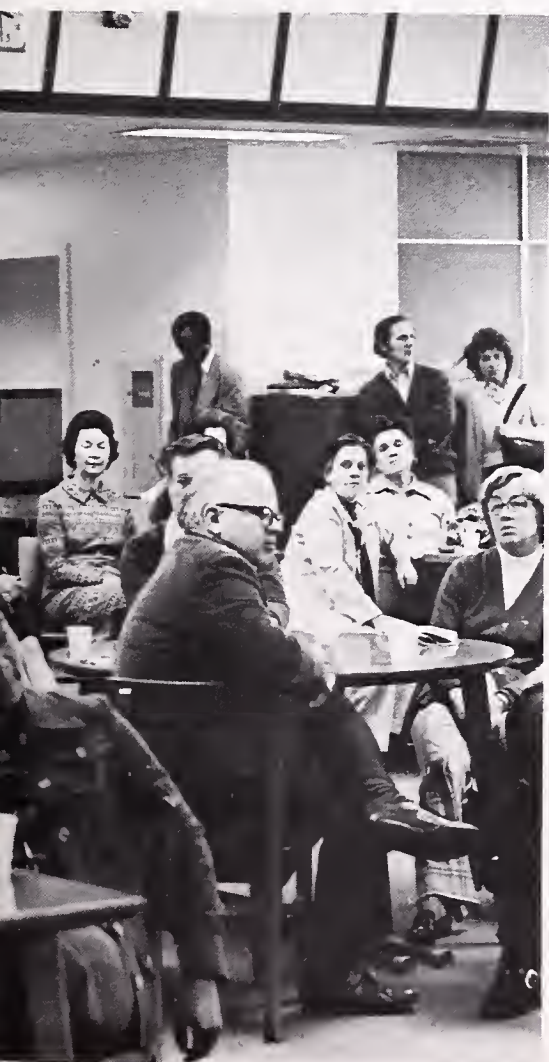

3. James Dickey listens and takes note of faculty discussions.

4. Nash San Martin takes five at faculty meeting.

5. Tom Parker explains new attendance rule.
